

Farr Bldg. One of Newest Office Structures in Camas

In one of Camas' newest office buildings, erected at the corner of NE Fourth avenue and Birch street, is Camas' long established clothing store. Farr Brothers have given dependable service to the clothing needs of men in the Camas and Washougal district for nearly 28 years, longer than any other single merchant.

Wilber E. Farr and Clifford E. Farr started their store here in July, 1910, in the same location where their business now stands. Two years later their trade demanded larger space, so another building was erected on the spot. For 22 years the community was served from this store, and then this, too, had to make way for a larger structure. After the old one was wrecked, a new two-story office building of reinforced concrete, veneered with a high grade brick, was completed on the corner in September, 1934. It provides for four store rooms downstairs and six office rooms and two apartments on the second floor.

More than 80 per cent. of the farms in Clark county receive electric service from Northwestern Electric Co.
